COTTON SUIT APPEAL HEARD

Attempt is Made to Dismiss Action Taken By State in Coyle Case.

IN COURTS FOR FIVE YEARS

An appeal taken by Attorney General West in the famous antitrust cases against W. H. Coyle, F. E. Houghton, R. A. Vose and other prominent cotton men of the state, was argued in the criminal court of appeals today.

The appeal was taken by the attorney general from a judgment in the district court of Logan county in which W. H. Coyle was acquitted. The state took an appeal on the contention that Judge Huston failed to certain evidence that should have been admitted. A motion to dismiss the appeal by the state was filed in the criminal court of appeals by Attorney C. G. Horner of Oklahoma representing the defendants. Judge Richardson merely appeared on behalf of Mr. Horner, who is ill.

The Coyle cotton cases have been in the courts for the past five years. At the first trial of the defendants in Guthrie Judge Huston sustained a demurrer of the defense to the indictment holding that the indictments were defective and that the sections of the Oklahoma antitrust statute under which the prosecutions were brought was unconstitutional. Upon appeal to the criminal court of appeals taken by the attorney general the court in opinion by Judges Boyd and Furman sustained the constitutionality of the anti-trust act and reversed the validity of the judgments and reversed the judgment of the lower court ordering a new trial.

Acquittal First.

The case against Coyle, a millionaire cotton man owning gins and oil mills all over northern Oklahoma, was first tried and acquitted resulting from which the present appeal was taken by the state.

The cases against Houghton and Vose have not yet been tried. Should a dismissal of the Coyle case be secured their cases probably will be dismissed in the lower court.

The cotton men were indicted by a special grand jury conducted in Logan county by the county attorney and Attorney General West. They are charged with forming a conspiracy to keep down the price of cotton and control the grading of that staple throughout northern Oklahoma.

OPERETTA BY HARRIS

Oklahoma City Singers Will Present Piece That Has Been Written by Oklahoma City Minister.

At the Musical Art Institute on the night of Friday, December 11, it will be presented an operetta written by Rev. Clarence J. Harris of Oklahoma City in which all those who appear will be residents of the city.

The musical drama has a cast of fifty characters, of whom thirty are children. The cast consists of mythological Greek characters, animated flowers, insects and fairies.

The title role will be taken by Mrs. Clarence J. Harris, supported in the lead by Mrs. A. W. Hornung as Maie and Rollin Smizer as Zephyrus. The heavy parts are taken by Mrs. Harrison R. Tevisdale as Eric, Mrs. Ruth Stuits as Minnie and T. W. Buckett as Bacchus. A large cast of capable young people support these characters, while thirty children in costumes designed especially by Dr. Harris will be the animated flowers.

Coral Leader as Proserpine, Van Sant Hosmer as Hyacinthus, Old Chondman as Cupid, and Ida C. Harris as the Angel Hope will lead the child parts. Dances will be introduced by Carol Horner as Terpsichore, Marcella Darling as Vesta, and Mex Rodman as Morning Glory. Special scenes will be used and the stage turned into a scene of beauty as Mount Olympus.

The purpose of the drama is to show the reality of beauty and its value to life; that flowers and nature are all revelations of truth and destiny. The drama, while a tragedy, turns in the second act, during which all flower land awakes and love and beauty prove triumphant over tragedy and beauty's troubles.

The drama will require the entire evening and will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

EIGHTEEN CASES DOCKETED FOR COMMISSION HEARING

Eighteen cases have been docketed by the corporation commission for hearing at the regular court term on December 8, which will be held in the court room of the commission. The dockets this time contain cases of only average importance, and it is possible the commission may finish the dockets in one day. On December 9 the case of the Tulsa Street Railway company, in which it is sought to be required to construct a crossing on one of the streets, will be heard.
